

My patients always ask me...

William "Brad" Roth, M.D.
Urologist

"If it were you, what would you do?" If I was facing prostate cancer today, and was a candidate for surgery, I'd choose the da Vinci[®] surgical robot. No doubt about it.

MALE PATIENTS WORRY that traditional prostatectomies damage nerves that regulate urination and erection. But, the da Vinci is changing that.

THIS SURGICAL ROBOT gives me a rare 3-D, high definition view of the prostate. With that, I'm able to spare more nerves making it possible for less urinary leakage.
